

Fee Schedule & Funding Guide

Specialist behaviour support · Effective 1 July 2026 (FY 2026–27)

We charge in line with the NDIS Pricing Arrangements and Price Limits — never above them. These are the current NDIS price caps for specialist behaviour support, and they apply to all of our behaviour support work: assessment, plan development, training and reporting.

Our rates

	Per hour
National	$252.99
Remote	$354.19
Very remote	$379.49

How your funding is used

From day one, your Implementation Plan maps exactly how your funded hours will be used across our work together — intake and assessment, plan development, training your support team, report writing and travel — so you always know where your funding stands. No surprises, and no funding running out without warning.

Behaviour support is funded under Capacity Building — Improved Relationships in NDIS plans. We welcome NDIA-managed, plan-managed and self-managed participants, as well as private clients. Private client fees are discussed upfront, before any commitment.

Travel — our time on the road

We come to where life happens — home, school, the community — so travel is part of how we work, and we keep it fair and transparent:

- Travel time is billed at 50% of our hourly rate, in line with NDIS rules — never the full rate.
- We only charge for travel time actually spent, up to the NDIS time limits for your area.
- Where we see more than one client in the same area on the same day, travel time is shared between them — nobody pays for the whole trip.

Travel — non-labour costs

Under the NDIS Pricing Arrangements, providers can also claim non-labour travel costs (Only if needed) — the vehicle and out-of-pocket costs of getting to you, separate from travel time. These include vehicle running costs (charged per kilometre), and expenses such as road tolls and parking.

- Vehicle costs are charged at no more than the NDIA's guidance rate — currently $0.99 per kilometre for a standard vehicle.
- Tolls and parking are only ever passed on at cost — we never add a margin.
- Non-labour costs are agreed with you in advance and set out in your service agreement — they never appear on an invoice as a surprise.
- Like travel time, these costs are shared where we see more than one client in the same area on the same day.

All travel — time and non-labour costs — is mapped into your Implementation Plan from the start, and shown as separate line items on every invoice, so you can see exactly what you are paying for.
